ALLIED CENTER GAINING GROUND

But Both Wings in Balkans
Are Forced Back.

SERBIANS SUFFER SEVERELY

Very Little Activity Is Reported From the Western Front—Hard Fighting Goes on in the Carpathians and the Russians Are Reported Attacking in the Caucasus.

London, Aug. 23.—Both allied wings on the Saloniki front, where the soldiers of at least seven nations are in battle, have been sent back by the Bulgarians. In the center, however, where the allies' main force is driving at the entrance to the great Vardar valley, Paris reports important gains.

Nothing is said about the Russian or Italian share in the fighting and no information has been given as to their strength. The Serbians apparently have been the heaviest losers and have been forced back on their extreme left about five miles from the Serbian-Greek frontiers.

They claim, however, continued progress on the other sections of their front.

On the allied right the British and French, who had crossed the Struma towards the Bulgarian frontier, have been forced back on the river.

On the Western front there has been little change. The British continue their efforts to surround Thiepval and report the capture of 100 yards of German trenches in the direction of Martenpuich. There has been no action of importance on the French section.

For several days meager Russian reports have insisted that nothing of importance has occurred in the east. Berlin, however, describes very heavy fighting, both on the Stokhod and in the Carpathians. An interesting feature of the Russian official statement is the intimation that the Grand Duke Nicholas again is pressing his offensive in the Caucasus. For the last two days Petrograd has emphasized the fighting around Diarbekir but no important change has occurred.

There is no news from the Italian front, where a lull has existed for several days.

GERMAN ARMIES ARE STRONG

Colonel Churchill Favors All Possible Aid to Russia.

London, Aug. 23.—On the presentation of the motion for adjournment of the house of commons for the summer vacation Colonel Winston Churchill, formerly first lord of the admiralty, initiated a debate on the conduct of the war. He said there was no certainty of a speedy ending of the conflict.

German armies were more numerous and better equipped than ever, but what reserves they had was another matter, he said.

The long eastern frontier, Colonel Churchill argued, was the most vulnerable and the inextinguishable armies that Russia is able to bring into operation should be utilized fully.

Therefore he urged the chancellor of the exchequer to permit no financial consideration to stand in the way of providing Russia to her utmost needs with munitions and equipment upon which, he said, everything now depended.

AWARDS MONEY TO SAILORS

British Prize Court Allows Naval Squadron £12,100.

London, Aug. 23.—A prize court awarded £12,100 prize money to the officers and crews of the squadron of Vice Admiral Sir Frederick Sturdee, which destroyed the German Pacific squadron in the battle off the Falkland Islands in December of 1914.

The bounty was determined by the number of men aboard the destroyed ships, £5 being awarded for each man.

This is the largest amount of prize money awarded since the outbreak of the war.

POLICE FORCE CUT; CRIME RAPIDLY INCREASES.

Toledo, O., Aug. 23.—Toledo crooks quickly took advantage of the reduced police force.

More than one hundred robberies, such as holdups, house breaking, pocket picking and other minor crimes were reported. There were few arrests.

The city's police force was cut one-third its normal quota because of a shortage of funds.

PRINCE ALEXANDER.

Serbian Heir Apparent in Command of Russian Troops.

After a conference of the French, British, Serbian and Russian commanders at Saloniki it was decided that the newly arrived Russian forces should take up positions with the Serbian troops on the southern frontier of Serbia.

The Serbo-Russian force was placed under a combined staff of which Crown Prince Alexander of Serbia is the nominal commander. The Russian General Friederichs is in actual command.

The purpose is to forewarn Turkey against any such situation as prevailed in Asia Minor.

TEXAS MAY GO REPUBLICAN

National Committeeman Makes Optimistic Report.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—H. G. MacGregor, Republican national committeeman from Texas, told those in charge of the Western Republican national campaign headquarters that he believed there was a possibility of Hughes and Fairbanks carrying Texas in November.

"The people of Texas are especially dissatisfied with the Democratic administration because of its Mexican policy," Mr. MacGregor said. "Mr. Hughes' statement of that policy is regarded as being eminently fair and correct. Living on the border, the people of Texas have had an opportunity to observe the actual working out of that policy."

CAN NOT LABOR FOR WIFE

North Carolina Convict Must Work for Tobacco Company.

Wentworth, N. C., Aug. 23.—The Rockingham county commissioners denied a request of Mrs. C. W. Slaughter that her husband, former police chief at Draper, N. C., be turned over to her as a convict laborer while he is serving a two-year sentence for manslaughter.

The jury stipulated that Slaughter be hired out and the commissioners decided he should work for a tobacco company.

Plan Prevent Strikes

(By United Press)
Washington, Aug. 23.—The three cornered fight to prevent a nationwide railway strike has apparently run into a jam, and it is considered impossible to reach a conclusion within 48 hours, one rail president said. They have asked President Wilson for some concrete assurances that the acceptance of his plan would prevent future strikes.

Railway Presidents
Have no Solution

(By United Press)
Washington, Aug. 23.—There is a marked evidence of uneasiness among the railway presidents, but they have no solution to President Wilson's proposition, and are divided among themselves and unable to agree. Some of the railroad presidents are in favor of accepting Wilson's proposition and let the result be on his head. Unless some progress is made in the way of a settlement of the controversy the indications are that some of the roads will act independently in accepting or rejecting the proposition, but every effort is being made against such precipitous action.

President Wilson has called Chairman Newlands and Adamson, of the senate and house interstate commerce committee, for a conference, but the purport of the meeting has not been disclosed. It is considered that the conference concerns legislation resulting from the meeting of the railway presidents last night.

THE GREATEST BATTLE IN WORLD'S HISTORY RAGING

(By United Press)
London, Aug. 23.—The greatest battle in the history of the world is now developing in the Balkans on the 150 mile front. The fury is increasing and Turkey and Austria are sending Bulgarian reinforcements. ARE PREPARING ANSWER TO PLEA

Railway Presidents Slow in Solving Problem.

DANGER OF STRIKE FADING

Three Members of Rail Magnates' Committee Call on President Wilson—Some Counter Proposition That May Prove Acceptable to the Employees May Be Offered.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Eight presidents of important railway systems who have been designated to draft the railroads' reply to President Wilson's appeal that they accept his plan for averting a nationwide strike were in almost continuous session without solving their problem.

Three of the committeemen, Hale Holden of the Burlington, R. S. Lovett of the Union Pacific and Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio, discussed the situation with President Wilson.

They were at the White House for more than an hour and on leaving declined to talk about their visit, further than to say they had asked for the conference to "discuss the general situation" and expected to see the president again.

It is understood, however, that the chief object of the visit was to ask the president to state specifically how he expected the railroads to make up the millions of dollars which the managements say it will cost them to put into effect the eight-hour basic day they are asked to grant.

What the president said in reply none of the committeemen would reveal.

Although some of the sixty or more presidents are showing a disposition to prolong the negotiation in the hope that the sentiment of business men of the country will be shown to be opposed to the idea of an eight-hour day there was a general feeling that a definite answer to President Wilson's demand cannot be much longer postponed. The president is understood to have indicated that he desired his proposals to be fully debated by the executives.

Talk of Strike Dwindles.

So far as the presidents would discuss the situation they are still insistent upon an arbitration of the eight-hour day and all other issues with the employees. As the conferences continued there was less talk of action which would lead to a strike, but some of the executives are expected to fight to the last ditch any plan which would force an eight-hour day upon the roads without some form of arbitration.

The executives are said to realize that Mr. Wilson cannot recede from the position he has publicly taken.

Among the more than 600 representatives of railroad brotherhoods in Washington there were evident a feeling of restlessness and there were many inquiries of leaders as to how long they must remain. It is not expected that this feeling will lead to any open revolt unless the conferences between President Wilson and the executives are prolonged.

The railroad executives who are counting upon winning the president to their position in the negotiations say that the case after all is to be decided by public opinion and that this will be found to support arbitration and condemn the eight-hour day.

They made public several telegrams from commercial organizations throughout the country upholding arbitration for the settlement of labor disputes and opposing an eight-hour day such as the employees desire.

The brotherhood heads in their first formal statement since arriving in Washington replied to various contentions of the railroad managers. They declared the railroads never had shown a desire to resort to arbitration unqualifiedly.

GIVES MONTANA TO WILSON

Democratic Leader Says President Will Carry State.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Stephen A. Cowley of Great Falls, Mont., visited Senator Walsh at Western Democratic national campaign headquarters and expressed the opinion that President Wilson is certain to carry Montana this fall.

"Recently, I made a trip through every section of the state," Mr. Cowley said. "Mr. Hughes' recent visit to Montana, in my opinion, did not help his cause."

Buddhism's Hells.

The infernal regions of Buddhism
are horrible. They comprise a great hell and 133 lesser hells. In these hells, according to the scriptures of the Buddhist temples, men are ground
to powder and their dust turned into ants and fleas and spiders. They are pestled in a mortar. The hungry eat red-hot iron balls. The thirsty drink molten iron.

Islamism says of the infernal re-

Boiling water shall be poured on their heads and on their skins, and they shall be beaten with maces of iron."—

Fire can be made to sing. A writer says: "Take a lighted candle and blow gently against the flame. You will hear a peculiar fluttering sound. The fluttering sound is fire's first attempt at music. Instead of the wistful breath of our lips let us employ the steady blast of a blowpipe. Instead of the pale and flickering light of a candle
let us use the bright and ardent glare of a chemist's lamp. When you have a lamp and blowpipe you can make fire
sing in earnest."

WELDED LINKS

By BARBARA PHIPPS

They had passed through a bitter quarrel, the first real storm that had ever broken upon them.

A few hours later they met and agreed to separate. There should be no divorce—at least not at present—
and they would divide the children,
the boy to go with the father, the girl
to remain with the mother. The father was now packing his belongings, something he had not done for a long while,
and it came hard to him, not only because he was not used to it, but because of the sadness of breaking up a home.

The mother was in the nursery with the children. Her little boy was on her lap, the mother caressing him in a way he did not understand. Now and again he would start to go to her husband, fearing that he would not get his packing done aright. But the specter of discord interposed. All that had passed forever. She could endure the separation stoically were it not for the children. Poor little things, unconscious of what was before them! Every harsh word that had been spoken between their parents was to bring a pang to their young hearts that would wear upon them till they were grown and had families of their own, and even then it would be a spot sore to the touch.

A conveyance was to call for the father and the boy at 4 o'clock. The child's belongings had been collected by the trunk, and as she deposited them in the trunk each article seemed to fall like a clod on his coffin. The playthings he loved smote her to the heart. Finally she got them all in.
But it was not like a disagreeable work done and relegated to the past; it was the beginning of a horror that would never end.

At 4 o'clock a carriage drove up to the door. She heard its wheels on the pavement and, going to the window, looked out. Tears started afresh. She stood facing the window to conceal them. Her husband came to the door,
and she heard him say:

"Ethel!"

How many times she had heard her name spoken by that same voice, always lovingly, until the day of the quarrel, when it had burned like lightning. Now, she fancied there was in it a deep sadness. She waited to dry her tears, then turned and faced him.

"Say goodbye to Robbie."

Goodbye to Robbie; better goodbye to life.

She steeled herself for the parting.
Approaching the boy, she clasped him
in her arms. The children looked at their father and mother and saw that some trouble hung over them, but they knew not what. Releasing her boy,
she went to a closet, took down his overcoat and his hat and began to put on the coat.

"Where am I going, mamma?" he
asked, with a trembling voice.
She tried to tell him, but she could not speak the words. A look told her husband to do it for her.

"You are going away with me, Rob-
bie," he said.

"When am I coming back?"

There was an ominous silence.
"I'm not going away," said the boy,
refusing to put his arms in the sleeves
of his coat. His sister went to him,
threw her arms about him and, look-
ing up at her father, said:

"You shan't take Robbie away."

The mother gently tried to separate
the children, but they clung to each other and to her. She looked at a roseate apple to her husband for help.

"Come, come, little girl," he said,
laying his hand on the soft little arm.
But she only clung the tighter to her
brother and her mother.

"Papa," said the boy, "take mamma
and Ethel, and I'll go with you."

"No, no," said the girl; "you and
papa stay here with mamma and me."

Seizing her father's hand, she tried
to put it round herself, her brother and

her mother. The boy, seeing what she was endeavoring to do, caught his
mother's hand and tried to do the
same. The mother looked at the father. The eyes of both were wet.
Then the father arose and beckoned
his wife to join him in another room.
"Sweetheart," he said and paused.
The words he would speak he found in his throat. Finally he found
voice to go on: "Give me another trial.
I was—well, crazy, to talk to you as I did. Forgive me. I think I can go
forever without!"

He could not bear to designate the
brutality of what he had said.

She covered her face with her hands;
he went to her and put his arms about
her.

"For their sake, for yours, I promise
that I will never again lose my self
control."

"I will try to hear with you as you hear with me," she moaned. "For their sakes perhaps we can!"

"We must."

When they left the room the father
went down and dismissed the carriage
at the door, while the mother went to
the children.

"Papa and Robbie are not going
away," she said, kissing them.
The children clasped their hands and
danced about the room.

That was their last violent quarrel.
Both placed a guard upon their tongues
and when the choler rose recalled the
scene of their former intended parting.
Meanwhile marital association as well
as the children was drawing them
closer together.

Had His Title All Ready.

Disraeli's last novel affords a curious instance of intelligent anticipation.
Among the host of characters in "Virlan Grey," most of them slightly veiled
portraits of celebrities of the day.
Lord Beaconsfield is one of the most important in the secondary rank. The novel was written in 1826, exactly fifty
years before the writer assumed the title he had invented. It is usual for novelists to portray themselves in their
first book, but no other instance can be
found of an author christening a character with a name subsequently to become his own.—London Spectator.

Sheepskin.

Sheepskin was used as parchment before the invention of paper. Even then it was a substitute for vellum, which is made from calfskin and of a far finer
quality than parchment, and was employed for the illuminated work. Tanned sheepskins are in the trade called basils. For these there are many legiti-mate uses, but it is for imitation purposes that the sheepskin is most largely used.

Already Knew Some of It.

"Johnny," said the small boy's mother, "I want you to stay home all afternoon and learn the Declaration of Independence by heart."

"I'll have to if you insist. But the idea doesn't line up with my ideas of
life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."—Washington Star.

In a Safe Place.

First Undergraduate—Have you telegraphed to the old man for money?
Second Undergraduate—Yes.
"Got an answer?"
"Yes. I telegraphed the governor.
Where is that money I wrote for? and his answer reads, 'In my pocket.'"
Baltimore Sun.

Early Morning Talks.

"He is always doing something that causes a lot of talk."

"Why, I never heard any of it."

"He is the only one who hears it.
He is always staying out at night later than his wife wishes him to."—Houston Post.

Humbled Arrogance.

"That did me more good than anything that has happened in a long time."

"What did?"

"The Green's new car broke down
right in front of our house, and I had the pleasure of sitting in our front window and watching Green and his whole family work for an hour trying to get it started again."—Detroit Free Press.

INDIAN SIGN LANGUAGE.

Members of Every Different Tribe Can
Read These Signals.

A white man who visits a foreign nation finds it hard and sometimes impossible to make his most ordinary
wants known. The red man has no
such difficulty. The problem of a universal language was solved centuries
ago by the savage inhabitants of this
western world.

Should an Indian from northern Alaska go to Patagonia he could by means
of this universal language converse
with his southern brethren almost as
easily as he could with his neighbors
at home. That would also be the case
if he visited Central America or met
the tribesmen of our own western prair-
ies and mountains.

When this language was invented no
one knows, but every Indian learns it
in addition to his own. Recently two
chiefs of different tribes met in the Geographical society rooms in Washington and held a conversation that
lasted nearly three hours, and yet neither one knew a word of the other's
language.

This universal language is, of course,
made up of signs. For example, if an Indian is passing through a strange
country and sees other Indians at a distance he makes the "peace sign"—
that is, he holds up his blanket by two
corners so that it covers his whole figure. The same thought is expressed by extending the hands, palms upward, slightly inclined from the face.
Any Indian would understand either
one of these signs.

Then there are the abstract signs by
which these "savages" can express
their thoughts with regard to the Great Spirit, heaven, good, evil, life
and death, sickness, health, riches
and poverty. Life is expressed by drawing an imaginary thread from the mouth
and death by chopping this thread off.
Another sign for death is to hold the
tips of the fingers of one hand against
the palm of the other and let them
gradually slip downward and at last
drop beneath the palm.

Most white people think that the Indian word of greeting, "How," is merely the abbreviation of the question,
"How are you?" But that is not so.
The word is really "au," which means
"brother" or "friend." So when he comes up and greets one he is seemingly inquisitive "How," he is not asking
after your health, but telling you that
he is a friend.—Youth's Companion.

Jutland and the Sea.

Jutland is one of the few countries
where political change has been avoid-
ed. Denmark has looked after the Jutes for over 1,000 years without
challenge. But the sea has refused to let Jutland alone. Like Holland, it
needs the protection of dikes, and but
for these there would be considerably
less Jutland. Even on the east coast,
with its higher elevation, the sea runs
into many inlets. One of the longest
of these, the Lyndorf, was in 1825
broken into from the west by the waters of the North sea, and the north-
-corner of Jutland has ever since remained an island.—London Chronicle.

Wonderful Tree Roots.

The Jand, a tree whose growths profuse in the Indian Punjab, a very
dry region, is chiefly remarkable for
its very long tap root, which was
eighty-four feet in one remarkable
specimen and which descended vertically sixty-four feet into the earth.

not speak the words. A look told her
husband to do it for her.

"You are going away with me, Rob-
bie," he said.

"When am I coming back?"

There was an ominous silence.

"I'm not going away," said the boy,
refusing to put his arms in the sleeves
of his coat. His sister went to him,
threw her arms about him and, look-
ing up at her father, said:

"You shan't take Robbie away."

The mother gently tried to separate
the children, but they clung to each other and to her. She looked a roseate appeal to her husband for help.

"Come, come, little girl," he said,
laying his hand on the soft little arm.

But she only clung the tighter to her
brother and her mother.

"Papa," said the boy, "take mamma
and Ethel, and I'll go with you."
"No, no," said the girl; "you and
papa stay here with mamma and me."
Seizing her father's hand, she tried
to put it round herself, her brother and

her mother. The boy, seeing what she
was endeavoring to do, caught his
mother's hand and tried to do the
same. The mother looked at the father. The eyes of both were wet.
Then the father arose and beckoned
his wife to join him in another room.
"Sweetheart," he said and paused.
The words he would speak were choking in his throat. Finally he found
voice to go on: "Give me another trial.
I was—well, crazy, to talk to you as
I did. Forgive me. I think I can go
forever without!"

He could not bear to designate the
brutality of what he had said.

She covered her face with her hands;
he went to her and put his arms about
her.

"For their sake, for yours, I promise
that I will never again lose my self
control."

"I will try to bear with you as you bear with me," she moaned. "For
their sakes perhaps we can!"

"We must."

When they left the room the father
went down and dismissed the carriage
at the door, while the mother went to
the children.

"Papa and Robbie are not going
away," she said, kissing them.

The children clasped their hands and
danced about the room.

That was their last violent quarrel.
Both placed a guard upon their tongues
and when the choler rose recalled the
scene of their former intended parting.
Meanwhile marital association as well
as the children was drawing them
closer together.

Had His Title All Ready.

Dierckx's first novel affords a curious instance of intelligent anticipation.
Among the host of characters in "Vivian Grey," most of them slightly veiled
portraits of celebrities of the day.
Lord Beaconsfield is one of the most
important in the secondary rank. The
novel was written in 1826, exactly fifty
years before the writer assumed the
title he had invented. It is usual for
novelists to portray themselves in their
first book, but no other instance can be
found of an author christening a character with a name subsequently to be-
come his own.—London Spectator.

Sheepskin.

Sheepskin was used as parchment before the invention of paper. Even then it was a substitute for vellum, which is made from calfskin and of a far finer
quality than parchment, and was employed for fine illuminated work. Tan-
ned sheepskins are in the trade called basils. For these there are many legitimate uses, but it is for imitation porporose that the sheepskin is most largely used.

Already Knew Some of It.

"Johnny," said the small boy's mother, "I want you to stay home all afternoon and learn the Declaration of In-
dependence by heart."

"I'll have to if you insist. But the
idea doesn't line up with my ideas of
life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."—Washington Star.

INDIAN SIGN LANGUAGE.

Members of Every Different Tribe Can
Read These Signals.

A white man who visits a foreign nation finds it hard and sometimes im-
possible to make his most ordinary
wants known. The red man has no
such difficulty. The problem of a universal language was solved centuries
ago by the savage inhabitants of this
western world.

Should an Indian from northern Alaska go to Patagonia he could by means
of this universal language converse
with his southern brethren almost as
easily as he could with his neighbors
at home. That would also be the case
if he visited Central America or met
the tribesmen of our own western prair-
ies and mountains.

When this language was invented no
one knows, but every Indian learns it
in addition to his own. Recently two
chiefs of different tribes met in the Geographical society rooms in Washington and held a conversation that
lasted nearly three hours, and yet neither one knew a word of the other's
language.

This universal language is, of course,
made up of signs. For example, if an Indian is passing through a strange
country and sees other Indians at a
distance he makes the "peace sign"—
that is, he holds up his blanket by two
corners so that it covers his whole figure. The same thought is expressed
by extending the hands, palms out-
ward, slightly inclined from the face.
Any Indian would understand either
one of these signs.

Then there are the abstract signs by
which these "savages" can express
their thoughts with regard to the Great Spirit, heaven, good, evil, life
and death, sickness, health, riches and poverty. Life is expressed by drawing an imaginary thread from the mouth
and death by chopping this thread off.
Another sign for death is to hold the
tips of the fingers of one hand against
the palm of the other and let them
gradually slip downward and at last
drop beneath the palm.

Most white people think that the Indian word of greeting, "How," is merely
the abbreviation of the question,
"How are you?" But that is not so.
The word is really "wot," which means
"brother" or "friend." So when he comes up and greets out his seemingly inquisitive "How," he is not asking
after your health, but telling you that
he is a friend.—Youth's Companion.

Jutland and the Sea.

Jutland is one of the few countries
where political change has been avoid-
ed. Denmark has looked after the Jutes for over 1,600 years without
challenge. But the sea has refused to
let Jutland alone. Like Holland, it
needs the protection of dikes, and but
for these there would be considerably
less Jutland. Even on the east coast,
with its higher elevation, the sea runs
into many inlets. One of the longest
of these, the Lyngford, was in 1825
broken into from the west by the waters of the Juth sea, and the northwestern of Jutland has ever since remained an island.—London Chronicle.

Wonderful Tree Roots.

The land, a tree which grows pro-freely in the Indian Punjab, a very
dry region, is chiefly remarkable for
its very long tap root, which was
eighty-four feet in one remarkable
specimen and which descended verti-
cally sixty-four feet into the earth.

WORLD'S FASHION NEWS

Mid-Summer Fashions From Paris Always Contain Hints of Autumn Styles

Mid-summer fashions from Paris always contain hints of autumn styles. This season however, it would seem that they are better adapted to act as a forecast of Mid-winter fashions, for many of them are made of velvet and most of them are trimmed with fur. In about nine instances out of ten, this fur is rabbit's skin, and one has to see it to realize just how effective it is. A very smart, new Jenny model made of black velvet, has a moderately high collar which flares out at the back and sides of the throat. The top of this collar is lined with the rabbit's skin which forms a delightfully becoming frame for the face. A band of the same soft fur encircles the skirt, about a foot from the hem, and little hobbling balls of it tip the ends of the narrow girle.

The belt of the early fall gown is narrow, narrower, narrowest. An inch is regarded as quite a generous width to allot to it. Sometimes this belt is made of the material of the costume, sometimes it is of ribbon velvet, and many times it is fur, and by fur, rabbit's skin is meant of course.

Almost every one of the advance autumn models, which is not made of velvet, is made of satin. Maupas makes the smartest sort of a little suit of black satin, with a full skirt, at each side of which is inset an inverted V of black broadtail. Almost the entire back of the bodice is made of the fur, as is the high, upstanding rather closely flaring collar and the ruffled cuffs.

The Parisienne is at present wearing hats of the simplest description, but she permits herself the greatest liberty as to color and vells. A hat of brilliant petunia red, much the shape of a man's straw hat, but with a slightly wider brim, is draped with a lace veil of even more brilliant red. Another hat of the same rich shade sports a brilliant blue lace veil—From H. W. Gossard Corset Co., courtesy H. F. Michael Co.

Divorce of Vicar Ackley Pontine Hats as Prize for Women

(By United Press)

New York, Aug. 23.—The divorce of Rev. Charles B. Ackley, vicar of St. Bartholomew's chapel and assistant to the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church here, from Henrietta L. Ackley, a belle of Atlanta and Washington when he married her in 1907, became effective in the New York state supreme court here today.

No one knew there was any trouble between the prominent couple until the case came up and the interlocutory decree was granted in supreme court May 25th. According to the testimony of witnesses for Dr. Ackley, none of which was contested or even replied to by Mrs. Ackley, she had been guilty of the impropriety of traveling through Italy and other parts of Europe for her health with one "Sam Charles." Any time after today the Rev. Mr. Ackley may marry, but his former wife is forbidden to remarry in less than 5 years. Nobody seems to know exactly who Sam Charles is. Mrs. Ackley is a niece of the widow of General John B. Gordon, once United States Senator and governor of Georgia. She was an intimate friend of Miss Theodore Shonts and her sister, the Duchess de Chaulnes.

St. Paul, Aug. 23.—One of the many summer visitors strolling about here today saw "Olsen, Hardware;" "Olsen, Meats;" "Olsen, Drugs;" "Olsen, Groceries;" Olsen this and Olsen that and Olsen the other. He saw so many, in fact, that when he came to the big building with "Olsen Mfg. Co." on it, he said that must be where they all came from.

A LOVELORN MAID

By ETHEL HOLMES

"Well, I'll be jinged!"

Jack Merriman made this exclamation one morning after the postman had handed him a letter which stated that the writer was a girl of seventeen. She had met Jack and fallen in love with him. There were reasons why, even if he loved her, they could not be united, but she could not help giving him the knowledge that he was beloved by her. Not on any account would she write such a letter if there was the slightest chance of his finding out who she was. When his letter had been sent she believed she would be happier. At least she could the better bear her separation from him.

"I'll bet my old boots," he added after a little meditation, "that some girl with a passion for flirting has written that letter, and I'll bet my old shoes she cares no more for me than for a pumpkin. If this diagnosis of her case is correct she has given a clew to her identity, and I'm the fellow to find her out. When I do I shall endeavor to pay her off in her own coin."

Jack scrutinized the letter, heating it and subjecting it to various chemicals, but if there was any clew in the paper he did not find it. Then he took up the writing. He was a good deal of a lady killer and had numerous notes laid away from young women written in different hands, all the way from slanting acute angles to letters no bigger than pin pricks. He compared the note he had received with these letters, but there was not one of them that furnished a clew to his modest lovelorn maiden.

After spending much time over the epistle that might have been better employed he gave up the hunt. Months passed. He forgot all about the poor girl who was nursing her grief in secret. Naturally enough, the time came when he chose a wife from among the innumerable throng of girls he knew. Miss Agnes Hartwell was her name, and Merriman looked upon her as one of the most sedate of the lot. He complained after they were engaged that he was obliged to do all the love making, to which she responded that this was as it should be. She had a poor opinion of a girl who angled for a man, and for one who would let a man know before he proposed that he would be accepted she had a supreme contempt.

But when Jack one evening told her about the maiden who was grieving for him and showed her the letter Agnes' kind heart seemed to be touched with pity. She declared that Jack should have persevered till he had found out who she was and given her at least the satisfaction of hearing from him that she was not blamed for telling him of a love that could not be gratified. So sympathetic was she with the modest maiden that Jack began to fear she would be impelled by her sympathy, added by her conscience, to send him off with the injunction to find the secret maiden and insist upon marrying her, no matter what the objections might be.

Indeed, when Jack found that Agnes did not get over the matter he began to worry and regretted that he had said anything about the letter, especially since his fiancée blamed him for a want of perseverance in not following the matter further. Agnes said that if a girl loved a man well enough to write such a letter it would be impossible for her to refrain from giving him a clew. For her part, she would not think very much of a man who gave up a hunt so easily.

A lover is very sensitive to the opinion of his fiancée, and Jack began to think that if Agnes dwelt upon the matter long enough she would despise him. He made all the excuses he could think of, finally declaring that the reason he had not persevered was because he had even then been in love with Agnes. Whereupon she reminded him that at the time he received the letter he had no acquaintance with her.

It sometimes happens that the more a girl loves a man the more she is disposed to torment him. At any rate, it was so with Agnes in respect to Jack. They had the full complement of tiffs

Get It Exact.

"Why is it that the butcher always sends me more meat than I order, never by any chance less?" complained a young housekeeper to her husband.

"Let me give him an order," said he, and, stepping to the telephone, he called up the market.

"Send me two pounds of porterhouse," he ordered, "and, say, if you can't cut two pounds make it a pound and a half."

He got the two pounds by the next delivery.—New York Sun.

A LOVELORN MAID

By ETHEL HOLMES

"Well, I'll be jinged!" Jack Merriman made this exclamation one morning after the postman had handed him a letter which stated that the writer was a girl of seventeen. She had met Jack and fallen in love with him. There were reasons why, even if he loved her, they could not be united, but she could not help giving him the knowledge that he was beloved by her. Not on any account would she write such a letter if there was the slightest chance of his finding out who she was. When his letter had been sent she believed she would be happier. At least she could the better bear her separation from him.

"I'll bet my old boots," he added after a little meditation, "that some girl with a passion for flirting has written that letter, and I'll bet my old shoes she cares no more for me than for a pumpkin. If this diagnosis of her case is correct she has given a clew to her identity, and I'm the fellow to find her out. When I do I shall endeavor to pay her off in her own coin."

Jack scrutinized the letter, heating it and subjecting it to various chemicals, but if there was any clew in the paper he did not find it. Then he took up the writing. He was a good deal of a lady killer and had numerous notes laid away from young women written in different hands, all the way from slanting acute angles to letters no bigger than pin pricks. He compared the note he had received with these letters, but there was not one of them that furnished a clew to his modest lovelorn maiden.

After spending much time over the epistle that might have been better employed he gave up the hunt. Months passed. He forgot all about the poor girl who was nursing her grief in secret. Naturally enough, the time came when he chose a wife from among the innumerable throng of girls he knew. Miss Agnes Hartwell was her name, and Merriman looked upon her as one of the most sedate of the lot. He complained after they were engaged that he was obliged to do all the love making, to which she responded that this was as it should be. She had a poor opinion of a girl who angled for a man, and for one who would let a man know before he proposed that he would be accepted she had a supreme contempt.

But when Jack one evening told her about the maiden who was grieving for him and showed her the letter Agnes' kind heart seemed to be touched with pity. She declared that Jack should have persevered till he had found out who she was and given her at least the satisfaction of hearing from him that she was not blamed for telling him of a love that could not be gratified. So sympathetic was she with the modest maiden that Jack began to fear she would be impelled by her sympathy, added by her conscience, to send him off with the injunction to find the secret maiden and insist upon marrying her, no matter what the objections might be.

Indeed, when Jack found that Agnes did not get over the matter he began to worry and regretted that he had said anything about the letter, especially since his fiancée blamed him for a want of perseverance in not following the matter further. Agnes said that if a girl loved a man well enough to write such a letter it would be impossible for her to refrain from giving him a clew. For her part, she would not think very much of a man who gave up a hunt so easily.

A lover is very sensitive to the opinion of his fiancée, and Jack began to think that if Agnes dwelt upon the matter long enough she would despise him. He made all the excuses he could think of, finally declaring that the reason he had not persevered was because he had even then been in love with Agnes. Whereupon she reminded him that at the time he received the letter he had no acquaintance with her. It sometimes happens that the more a girl loves a man the more she is disposed to torment him. At any rate, it was so with Agnes in respect to Jack. They had the full complement of tiffs

It means that the party of Lincoln is restored, alert, effective. It means the unity of a common perception of paramount national needs. We desire that the Republican Party as a great liberty party shall be the agency of national achievement, the organ of the effective expression of dominant Americanism. What do I mean by that? I mean America conscious of power, awake to obligation, erect in self-respect, prepared for every emergency, devoted to the ideals of peace, distinct with the spirit of human brotherhood, safeguarding both individual opportunity and the public interest, maintaining a well-ordered constitutional system adapted to local self-government without the sacrifice of essential national authority, appreciating the necessity of stability, expert knowledge and thorough organization as the indispensable conditions of security and progress; a country loved by its citizens with a patriotic fervor permitting no division in their allegiance and no rivals in their affection—I mean America first and America efficient. BOTH PARTIES WORK HARD.

Tradition Has It That Unless Republicans Carry Pine Tree State by 20,000 Majority the Country Will Go Democratic—Some Figures on Past Elections.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Many years ago, before William J. Bryan and Theodore Roosevelt came to disturb all political conditions, the state of Maine was regarded as a political barometer.

In those days it was said that if the Republican plurality in the September election fell below 20,000 the country was going Democratic. This statement had a few exceptions—as, for instance, in 1880 the Republicans lost the state by less than 1,000 votes in a fusion campaign, yet Garfield was elected president. But upon the whole Maine has been considered a guide for the greater battle each presidential year.

No doubt that accounts for the contest that is in progress in that state and the efforts of both parties to make the best possible showing.

A Look at the Figures.

The Democrats and Greenbackers fused in 1880, with the result stated. In 1884 the Republican plurality was 19,700, and the Republicans lost the national election by the closest vote in recent times. In 1888 the Republican majority for governor was 18,682, and Harrison defeated Cleveland by a close vote in the national election. In 1892 the Republican majority was 12,531, and Cleveland easily defeated Harrison. In 1896, 1900 and 1904 the Republican majorities for governor ranged from 48,000 to 25,000, and the Republicans won in November. In 1908 the plurality for governor was only 7,653, yet Taft was elected by a large majority. In 1912 the Republicans elected their governor by the narrow margin of 3,395, and the Republicans lost the presidency. Two years later, with a Progressive candidate, the Democrats had a plurality of 3,000.

Bald Tom of Indiana.

How those old senators hated it! I refer to the speech of Thomas Taggart, a comparatively new senator from Indiana. As a rule, the older senators think it is decidedly presumptuous for a new senator to give his views at any time, but when he enters upon a severe criticism of senatorial methods, attacks senatorial "pork" and criticizes wasteful extravagance, why, that is going much too far!

Tom Taggart told the senate some truths and backed up his statements with facts and figures. It was a bold thing to do, attacking the pork barrel, but it may help Taggart in Indiana.

Senatorial Prophecy.

During his speech against the child labor bill Senator Hardwick of Georgia, commenting on the fact that there was no plank for such legislation in the Baltimore platform, a basis of the great victory of 1912, said:

"We are now going into another campaign, which I hope we will win. But that is prophecy."

"And dangerous prophecy," remarked Senator Borah of Idaho.

"I don't know about that," replied Hardwick. "It looks to me as if we have been gaining on you recently, as near as I can guess."

Quoting the President.

In the last vain efforts to prevent large appropriations for the army and navy Democrats in both houses quoted from President Wilson's message to congress in December, 1914, as positive proof that the country was well prepared before entering upon such a large military and naval program.

Dangerous Alliances.

The propaganda goes on for international alliances for peace. Efforts are being made to set the stage for the United States to lead in a movement for an international court and become a party with other nations to enforce its decrees.

If France had not been an ally of Russia the great European slaughter might have been averted. If Japan had not been an ally of England one less country would have been engaged in the war. If Germany had not been an ally of Austria there need have been no war. At least the countries that made the war so monstrous need not have been drawn into it unless they wanted war.

It was George Washington who warned his people to beware of entangling foreign alliances.

Hardwick's Severe Charges.

Senator Hardwick was speaking earnestly against the manner in which his party associates were sacrificing the rights of states.

"I have been attempting," interrupted Works of California, "to defend the southern states against the encroachments of the federal government ever since I have been here. They have been absolutely giving away, selling their rights, for money to come out of the national treasury."

"Yes, sir," replied the Georgia senator; "they have sometimes. I am ashamed to say, sold their birthright for a mess of pottage, and most often they did not get the pottage."

FORMER SPEEDWAY CHAMPION COMING.

EDDIE HEARNE, former speedway champion of the world, has been in the auto racing game so many years that his name is known wherever auto racing is conducted as an entertainment. Steady and cool, when hard pressed, and able to take advantage of every little incident in his favor, he is always a serious contender for money and honors. He is one of the prominent entries in the auto races at the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 6 and 9.

How England Saved the Cotton Planter

(By United Press)

London, Aug. 23 (By Mail).—That the British government decided not to let American cotton to go below 8½ cents a pound to planters; that it prepared to spend 250 million to prevent a possible cotton panic in America and that it sent agents to the United States to buy cotton in unlimited quantities to keep the price normal; and also that these agents are still in the United States, are facts given to the United Press today.

The British government, when it decided in 1915 to make cotton contraband, realized that it might cause a panic in the United States. Felix Rose, who directed the British plan to prevent this, told today how he did it:

"We had to declare cotton contraband," said he, "but we wanted to protect the cotton planters. We knew the speculators would make capital of the order in council and drive cotton prices to ruinous depths. So the British government decided to go into the market as a buyer. I looked over the market and decided we should be ready to buy 5 million bales, and we had to have 250 million dollars at our disposal constantly. We thought the planter should not get less than 8½ cents, so we sent agents to the United States with unlimited authority to buy. That was in July of 1915. We told the American government of our plan. On August 18th the king signed the order in council declaring cotton contraband. No panic followed. What we had done was not generally known and the strength of cotton in the open market must have been a mystery to the speculators. In the first week cotton went up a cent. Within a month it was up 3½ cents. So the planters received $60,000,000 more for the crop than they would have received in normal times."

"Is the British government ready to follow with the same action for the 1916 crops?" was asked.

"It looks as if the 1916 crop would be able to sell itself without British aid," said Rose. Rose, an English subject, has been in the cotton business all his life. He added in conclusion that every bale of cotton that has been seized by the British has been paid for and no shipper has lost money except possibly on cotton for which he would have received an exorbitant profit if he had gotten it to Germany instead of its being seized by the British. Every bale seized, he said, has been sold to spinners in England and not a single bale remains in storage.

A JOKE THAT FAILED.

Tried on "Stonewall" Jackson, It Acted the Wrong Way.

"Major Thomas J. Jackson, later the famous 'Stonewall' Jackson, was our instructor in mathematics and drilled the students in artillery tactics," said General Armistead, an antebellum graduate of the Virginia Military Institute. "Old Jack," as the students called him, with his worn uniform, faded cap, usually perched at a ridiculous angle upon his big head, rusty old cavalry saber and ungraceful gait, was in appearance far from the ideal of a soldier. Nevertheless it was possible even then to guess at the real greatness of the man.

"The guns we used in our artillery drills were pulled by hand. As the drill would proceed our instructor

would become transformed into the very semblance of Mars himself as, with form erect, waving sword and flashing eye, he would give the command 'Fire!' in a voice that rang over the campus like the blast of a bugle.

"One day in a spirit of mischief the students who were drawing the gun pretended to lose control of it as it moved rapidly down a gentle incline directly toward Major Jackson. But the commander, instead of scuttling out of the way, as the boys had gleefully anticipated, stood sternly erect and immovable right in the track of the gun.

"I tell you there was some lively hustling and just in the nick of time, too, to keep Old Jack from being run over. That was our only attempt to play a practical joke at Major Jackson's expense."—Youth's Companion.

Transformation.

An English farmer had a number of guests to dinner and was about to help them to some rabbit when he discovered that the dish was cold. Calling the servant, he exclaimed, "Here, Mary, take this rabbit out and 'eat it and bring it back a little 'otter'."

IT'S the "little" things that make motoring a pleasure or a constant source of annoyance.

The car you've been thinking about—does it have electric starter and lights, demountable rims, rain-vision windshield, speedometer, one-man mohair top? Does it have an irreversible steering gear, linoleum running boards and floor boards?

Does it have, as the Maxwell has, all these refinements, good appearance, an enviable reputation and an unequalled record for endurance and economy?

The foregoing statement shows a deficit of $12,768.09 for the year ending June 30th, 1916, with expenses reduced to a minimum. The maximum addition asked of five and one half mills above the rate now paid on the assessed valuation of the City of Brainerd of $2,282,299, would bring $12,552.64 additional revenue, some of this probably would not be paid. Therefore, it is easy to see that the City must have this additional revenue in order to pay its bills, even when run under the most economical conditions, and the amount asked is no more than is absolutely necessary.

The addition of five and one half mills will not add greatly to the taxes of the average tax payer. As an illustration: At present a tax payer having property valued at $1000, full and true value, would be assessed at 40¢ or $400 taxable value. On this under the present rate he would pay $18.60, for all purposes. Under the new rate he would pay $20.80, an addition of $2.20. If you have less property your increase would be proportionately less. ARE YOU WILLING TO DO YOUR SHARE TO KEEP YOUR CITY IN GOOD CREDIT OR DO YOU WANT YOUR CITY TO BECOME BANKRUPT?

Considering these facts and the welfare of Brainerd the joint committee recommend that the voters, at the special election to be held on Sept. 12th next.

Quoting the President.

In the last vain efforts to prevent large appropriations for the army and navy Democrats in both houses quoted from President Wilson's message to congress in December, 1914, as positive proof that the country was well prepared before entering upon such a large military and naval program.

Dangerous Alliances.

The propaganda goes on for international alliances for peace. Efforts are being made to set the stage for the United States to lead in a movement for an international court and become a party with other nations to enforce its decrees.

If France had not been an ally of Russia the great European slaughter might have been averted. If Japan had not been an ally of England one less country would have been engaged in the war. If Germany had not been an ally of Austria there need have been no war. At least the countries that made the war so monstrous need not have been drawn into it unless they wanted war.

Hardwick's Severe Charges.

Senator Hardwick was speaking earnestly against the manner in which his party associates were sacrificing the rights of states.

"I have been attempting," interrupted Works of California, "to defend the southern states against the encroachments of the federal government ever since I have been here. They have been absolutely giving away, selling their rights, for money to come out of the national treasury."

"Yes, sir," replied the Georgia senator; "they have sometimes, I am ashamed to say, sold their birthright for a mess of pottage, and most often they did not get the pottage."

How England Saved the Cotton Planter

(By United Press)

London, Aug. 23 (By Mail).—That the British government decided not to let American cotton go below 8½ cents a pound to planters; that it prepared to spend 250 million to prevent a possible cotton panic in America and that it sent agents to the United States to buy cotton in unlimited quantities to keep the price normal; and also that these agents are still in the United States, are facts given to the United Press today.

The British government, when it decided in 1915 to make cotton contraband, realized that it might cause a panic in the United States. Felix Rose, who directed the British plan to prevent this, told today how he did it:

"We had to declare cotton contraband," said he, "but we wanted to protect the cotton planters. We knew the speculators would make capital of the order in council and drive cotton prices to ruinous depths. So the British government decided to go into the market as a buyer. I looked over the market and decided

we should be ready to buy 5 million bales, and we had to have 250 million dollars at our disposal constantly. We thought the planter should not get less than 8½ cents, so we sent agents to the United States with unlimited authority to buy. That was in July of 1915. We told the American government of our plan. On August 18th the king signed the order in council declaring cotton contraband. No panic followed. What we had done was not generally known and the strength of cotton in the open market must have been a mystery to the speculators. In the first week cotton went up a cent. Within a month it was up 3½ cents. So the planters received $60,000,000 more for the crop that year than they would have received in normal times."

"Is the British government ready to follow with the same action for the 1916 crops?" was asked.

"It looks as if the 1916 crop would be able to sell itself without British aid," said Rose. Rose, an English subject, has been in the cotton business all his life. He added in conclusion that every bale of cotton that has been seized by the British has been paid for and no shipper has lost money except possibly on cotton for which he would have received an ex-

IT'S the "little" things that make motoring a pleasure or a constant source of annoyance.

The car you've been thinking about—does it have electric starter and lights, demountable rims, rain-vision windshield, speedometer, one-man mohair top? Does it have an irreversible steering gear, linoleum running boards and floor boards?

Does it have, as the Maxwell has, all these refinements, good appearance, an enviable reputation and an unequalled record for endurance and economy?

This is a vital matter to you. Make sure.

A JOKE THAT FAILED.

Tried on "Stonewall" Jackson, It Acted the Wrong Way.

"Major Thomas J. Jackson, later the famous 'Stonewall' Jackson, was our instructor in mathematics and drilled the students in artillery tactics," said General Armistead, an antebellum graduate of the Virginia Military Institute. "Old Jack," as the students called him, with his worn uniform, faded cap, usually perched at a ridiculous angle upon his big head, rusty old cavalry saber and ungainly gait, was in appearance far from our bean ideal of a soldier. Nevertheless it was possible even then to guess at the real greatness of the man.

"The guns we used in our artillery drills were pulled by hand. As the drill would proceed, our instructor

would become transformed into the very semblance of Mars himself as, with form erect, waving sword and flashing eye, he would give the command 'Fire!' in a voice that rang over the campus like the blast of a bugle.

"One day in a spirit of mischief the students who were drawing the gun pretended to lose control of it as it moved rapidly down a gentle incline directly toward Major Jackson. But the commander, instead of scuttling out of the way, as the boys had gleefully anticipated, stood sternly erect and immovable right in the track of the gun.

"I tell you there was some lively hustling and just in the nick of time, too, to keep Old Jack from being run over. That was our only attempt to play a practical joke at Major Jackson's expense."—Youth's Companion.

Transformation.

An English farmer had a number of guests to dinner and was about to help them to some rabbit when he discovered that the dish was cold. Calling the servant, he exclaimed, "Here, Mary, take this rabbit out and eat it and bring it back a little 'otter'."

The foregoing statement shows a deficit of $12,768.09 for the year ending June 30th, 1916, with expenses reduced to a minimum. The maximum addition asked of five and one half mills above the rate now paid on the assessed valuation of the City of Brainerd of $2,282,299, would bring $12,552.64 additional revenue, some of this probably would not be paid. Therefore, it is easy to see that the City must have this additional revenue in order to pay its bills, even when run under the most economical conditions, and the amount asked is no more than is absolutely necessary.

The addition of five and one half mills will not add greatly to the taxes of the average tax payer. As an illustration: At present a tax payer having property valued at $1000, full and true value, would be assessed at 40¢ or $400 taxable value. On this under the present rate he would pay $18.60, for all purposes. Under the new rate he would pay $20.80, an addition of $2.20. If you have less property your increase would be proportionately less. ARE YOU WILLING TO DO YOUR SHARE TO KEEP YOUR CITY IN GOOD CREDIT OR DO YOU WANT YOUR CITY TO BECOME BANKRUPT?

Considering these facts and the welfare of Brainerd the joint committee recommend that the voters, at the special election to be held on Sept. 12th next.

PERICH AND POPOVICH BOUND OVER, $600 BAIL

I. W. W. Organizer John Perich Raises Bail, Released And Goes to Crosby in Afternoon

PRESUMABLY FAN UP STRIKE

Three Others are Released—Judge Halvorson Took Under Advisement Legal Point

I. W. W. agitators, charged with inciting riot and assault, in Crosby at the agitators strike, had their preliminary hearing in Brainerd municipal court before Judge Gustav Halvorson, County Attorney S. F. Alderman representing the state and Judge A. W. Uhl of Crosby and Attorney A. F. Rock of Superior, Wis., the defense.

After a two days' hearing John Perich, I. W. W. organizer, and Mike Popovich were bound over to the grand jury and bail fixed at $600 each. Their associates, Daniel Evech, Enal Vishnich and Vosen Adubrich were ordered released.

Perich got bail and with many of the sympathizers who attended the trial rode back to Crosby in a car, followed by other cars. As he is an organizer, it is presumed he went back to the range to fan up the strike which about fizzled out while he was in jail.

Judge Halvorson took under advisement a point made by Judge Uhl, the contention being that the complaining witness in a criminal case must be examined by the judge and not by the clerk before a warrant issues.

Judge Gustav Halvorson Wednesday morning ruled on the point of law brought up by Judge A. W. Uhl, one of the attorneys defending the I. W. W. men. The contention was that the complaining witness in this criminal case must be examined by the judge and not by the clerk before a warrant issued. Judge Halvorson decided against the technicality.

Attorney A. F. Rock, who conducted the defense in the court room, returned this afternoon to his home in Superior, Wis. Lumbago attacked him in the neck and he was not able to move his head and had to be helped into the coach.

The next bout was a draw, for the noon train came in with the Duluth News Tribunes and the match was off while the boys scrambled for the papers.

Shuts Factory Causes Suffering

(By United Press)

Montevideo, Aug. 23—Lack of war orders for frozen meats has caused the closing of Frigorifico Uruguayo, or Uruguayan Meat Freezing Plant in the district of Cerro and the consequent throwing of 2,000 men out of employment. Unemployment is rapidly reaching a critical stage in the district, as the number of unemployed has doubled several times by the closing of allied industries. More men are being thrown out of work daily. Much suffering has resulted. Stock farmers in the interior have also suffered big slumps in the prices paid for their product. The belligerents in Europe do not want any more of these meats right now and there are no ships for the plant's production to be shipped elsewhere.

Hildreth, Prescott, Cooper, Poe and others of the pioneers came in for a full measure of praise, but Washington Irving will always hold his title as father of our literature.—New York Journal.

Cook, of Brainerd, had been pitching air tight ball, but two small hits being recorded against him. Smith, of the Ironton Smith and Schmidt battery, had been pounded for ten hits. Brainerd protested the decision of Grimstad, calling Tanner out at first when Russ had his foot off the bag and juggled the ball.

"In Old Kentucky"

The return of one of America's most popular dramas "In Old Kentucky," is scheduled for Friday evening, August 25, at the Brainerd opera house.

No play of today retains such a hold on the affections of the playgoer as this stirring, wholesome story of Kentucky life by Charles T. Dazell. Season after season, without a break, it has toured the United States and Canada, to say nothing of English touring companies and Australian presentations, until the play has to its credit in this country alone, twenty-two full theatrical seasons. Its vogue has been remarkable and its success exceptional over the world. However, "In Old Kentucky" is real, meritorious, interesting and with features that set it apart from the average run of successful plays—features that have added to its life and given it vitality beyond its contemporaries.

It is beyond question the one purely American play of our time that will endure. It does not depend for consideration upon its great pictorial scenes nor upon its many ingenious scenic devices. The incidents and strong climaxes are led up to gradually and logically, and are a part of the story. Pure sentiment, valorous deeds, romance, humor, splendid clean-cut comedy are combined with keen dramatic instinct. The characters are drawn with skill and are types that will be recognized everywhere. It is the faithful drawing of these characters of our own country and of our own time, and the faithful portrayal of a phase of American life hitherto neglected by the dramatists that have made "In Old Kentucky" the greatest popular success of this generation—and that is unquestionably the secret of its unending vogue.

A fine company for the forthcoming engagement here has been provided with Miss Hallie Myers in the leading role of the mountain heroine. She has played the part with great success in this city upon previous occasions.

Alderman representing the state and Judge A. W. Uhl of Crosby and Attorney A. F. Rock of Superior, Wis., the defense.

After a two days' hearing John Perich, I. W. W. organizer, and Mike Popovich were bound over to the grand jury and bail fixed at $600 each. Their associates, Daniel Eveleth, Enlai Vishnich and Vosen Adubrich were ordered released.

Perich got bail and with many of the sympathizers who attended the trial rode back to Crosby in a car, followed by other cars. As he is an organizer, it is presumed he went back to the range to fan up the strike which about fizzled out while he was in jail.

Judge Halvorson took under advisement a point made by Judge Uhl, the contention being that the complaining witness in a criminal case must be examined by the judge and not by the clerk before a warrant issued.

Judge Gustav Halvorson Wednesday morning ruled on the point of law brought up by Judge A. W. Uhl, one of the attorneys defending the I. W. W. men. The contention was that the complaining witness in this criminal case must be examined by the judge and not by the clerk before a warrant issued. Judge Halvorson decided against the technicality.

Attorney A. F. Rock, who conducted the defense in the court room, returned this afternoon to his home in Superior, Wis. Lumbago attacked him in the neck and he was not able to move his head and had to be helped into the coach.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES TODAY

There were reports of an I. W. W. man parading Kingwood street and when it was eventually lifted, it was found to have been a young lady masquerading as the other evening.

It was some wrestling match at the depot. Carl Nelson, weight 160 pounds, matched with Frank Egan, weight 85 pounds. Martin Rosenberg was the referee. Egan got the first fall in 15 minutes. The next bout was a draw, for the noon train came in with the Duluth News Tribunes and the match was off while the boys scrambled for the papers.

Take the Children to the "Best"

Children and the big folks too should not neglect to see "The Children in the House," at the Best, one of the finest film pictures ever shown in Brainerd. The Triangle kiddies are in evidence and they act spontaneously.

You will regret it if you do not see this. Then there is Jewel Carmen as a siren, Norma Talmadge as the long suffering wife.

The scenes of automobiles at night and in the storm are some of the finest bits of photography ever released on any screen.

Go early tonight, as the Best is playing to crowded houses. Last night was no exception and tonight will draw good houses too.

Shuts Factory Causes Suffering

(By United Press)

Montevideo, Aug. 23.—Lack of war orders for frozen meats has caused the closing of Frigorifico Uruguayo, or Uruguayan Meat Freezing Plant in the district of Cerro and the consequent throwing of 2,000 men out of employment. Unemployment is rapidly reaching a critical stage in the district, as the number of unemployed has doubled several times by the closing of allied industries. More men are being thrown out of work daily. Much suffering has resulted. Stock farmers in the interior have also suffered his slumps in the prices paid for their product. The belligerents in Europe do not want any more of these meats right now and there are no ships for the plant's production to be shipped elsewhere.

Washington Irving.

To Washington Irving more than to any other writer belongs the high honor of being the "creator of American literature."

Irving was not the first American to write good literature, but he was the first American to write in a way to catch and hold the European attention. It was through Irving's writings that the old world was made aware of the fact that there was an American literature. Hildreth, Prescott, Cooper, Poe and others of the pioneers came in for a full measure of praise, but Washington Irving will always hold his title as father of our literature.—New York Journal.

RETURN GAME ON NEUTRAL GROUNDS

Ironton Refuses Brainerd Offer to Play on Crosby Grounds for Side Bet of $200

WITH NEUTRAL UMPIRES

Cook Pitched Air Tight Ball in the Sunday Game Allowing But Two Hits, Small Ones at That

Brainerd has made overtures to Ironton for a game to be played on neutral grounds, Crosby, August 27, with a side bet of $200 and 60 and 40 per cent division of gate receipts.

Manager A. H. Proctor, of Ironton, was called up twice and at length refused the proposition. The game of August 20 wound up in a dispute in Brainerd's half of the eighth inning. Cook, of Brainerd, had been pitching air tight ball, but two small hits being recorded against him. Smith, of the Ironton Smith and Schmidt battery, had been pounded for ten hits. Brainerd protested the decision of Grimstad, calling Tanner out at first when Russ had his foot off the bag and juggled the ball.

Motley business men have made overtures to get the two nines to play there at the Motley fair in September.

BUSH BLANKS DETROIT 1 TO 0

Philadelphia, Aug. 22.—Philadelphia shut out Detroit today, 1 to 0. Both teams had several opportunities to score, but Bush and James were effective with men on the bases and were given fine support. Walsh scored the only run in the seventh inning on a base on balls, his steal of second and Strunk's double.

"In Old Kentucky"

The return of one of America's most popular dramas "In Old Kentucky," is scheduled for Friday evening, August 25, at the Brainerd opera house.

No play of today retains such a hold on the affections of the playgoer as this stirring, wholesome story of Kentucky life by Charles T. Dazell. Season after season, without a break, it has toured the United States and Canada, to say nothing of English touring companies and Australian presentations, until the play has to its credit in this country alone, twenty-two full theatrical seasons. Its vogue has been remarkable and its success exceptional over the world. However, "In Old Kentucky" is real, meritorious, interesting and with features that set it apart from the average run of successful plays—features that have added to its life and given it vitality beyond its contemporaries.

It is beyond question the one purely American play of our time that will endure. It does not depend for consideration upon its great pictorial scenes nor upon its many ingenious scenic devices. The incidents and strong climaxes are led up to gradually and logically, and are a part of the story. Pure sentiment, valorous deeds, romance, humor, splendid clean-cut comedy are combined with keen dramatic instinct. The characters are drawn with skill and are types that will be recognized everywhere. It is the faithful drawing of these characters of our own country and of our own time, and the faithful portrayal of a phase of American life hitherto neglected by the dramatists that have made "In Old Kentucky" the greatest popular success of this generation—and that is unquestionably the secret of its unending vogue.

A fine company for the forthcoming engagement here has been provided with Miss Hallie Myers in the leading role of the mountain heroine. She has played the part with great success in this city upon previous occasions.

To the District Court to Await the Action of Grand Jury, Charge is Embezzlement

EXAMINATION THIS MORNING

M. E. Ryan Appeared as Attorney for Livingston, George B. Owen of Mankato, Testified

R. R. Livingston, charged with embezzlement, failing to account for $1,400 claimed to have been advanced by George B. Owen of Mankato, to be loaned out on Cass county land, had his preliminary hearing in municipal court before Judge Gustav Halvorson, and was bound over to the grand jury. As the minimum penalty for the alleged crime is seven years, bonds will be set by application to the district court.

W. H. Crowell, first attorney for Livingston, has been succeeded by M. E. Ryan. After Mr. Owen gave his testimony, Sherman Buckmaster, president of the Security National Loan Co., testified. Livingston is secretary of the company. Two other witnesses summoned, Odin Naustvold of Walker, and another Cass county man, did not appear. However, on the evidence presented, the court bound over the defendant to await the action of the grand jury.

A late judgment from the district court of Cass county just filed in this county is that of J. H. Hale against the Security National Loan Co. for $314.58.

Mr. Livingston for a short time was out on $2000 bonds furnished by Mr. Crowell and his wife, and Louis Sherlund under order of the municipal court.

BIRDMAN BEATS BIRDS

De Lloyd Thompson, Noted Aviator, Establishes New Altitude Record—Coming to Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9.

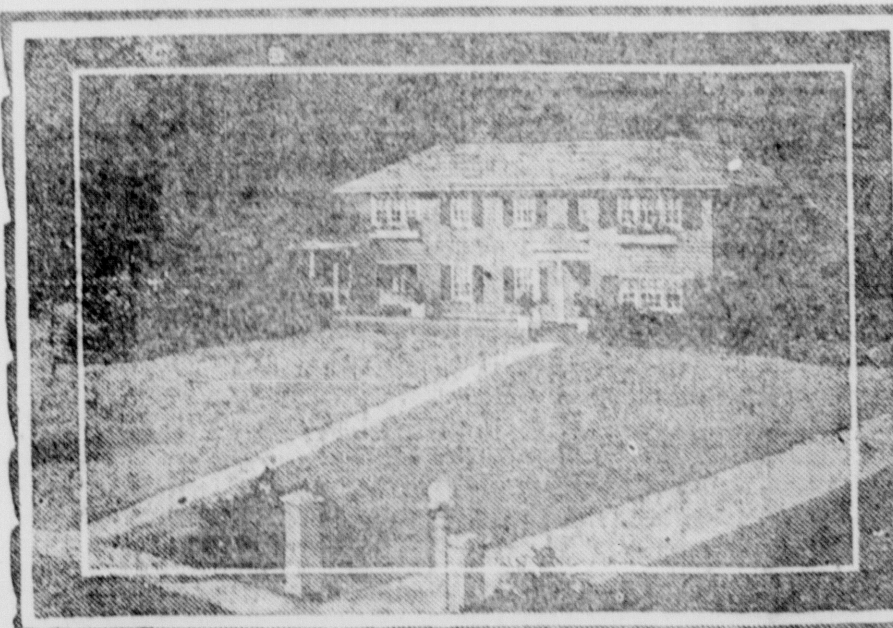

DE LLOYD THOMPSON, the daring aviator, who is coming to the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9, has established a new American altitude record. Recently he ascended so high at New York City that he was completely lost from sight long before he ceased going upward. This feat will make his visit to the Minnesota State Fair more interesting than ever.

In preparation for his altitude flight Thompson donned an Arctic suit, which was given to him by Admiral Peary, the Arctic explorer, for the purpose of warding off the intense cold. Had it not been for this suit, Thompson declares he would have been unable to gain the new record for high flying.

Thompson is to give a preparedness demonstration at the Minnesota State Fair in imitation of the invasion of this country by an enemy air fleet in time of war. He will demonstrate from a gigantic war plane a fancied destruction of the Fair Grounds by dropping bombs upon the principal buildings. Thompson's preparedness demonstrations in the East this spring gained international recognition for him.

The big birdman will also loop the loop, fly upside down, drop vertically in the air, and perform other perilous feats which only a few airmen dare to attempt.

is an annex of the Art Galleries. A pretentious display of all kinds of building materials will be shown in conjunction with the model suburb exhibit.

The White Pine Bureau, representing the Northern Pine Manufacturers of Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan and the Association of White Pine Manufacturers of Idaho, are co-operating with the Minnesota Art Commission and the Minnesota State Fair in insuring the success of this big display.

SENATOR LIPPITT.

Opens the Republican Fight in Rhode Island.

SENATOR LIPPITT

OPENS CAMPAIGN

Rocky Point, R. I., Aug. 23.—President Wilson is attempting to do far more than expected of him, in attempting to manage the affairs of 18,000,000 persons immediately south of our southern boundary, Senator Henry F. Lippitt of Rhode Island asserted in an arraignment of the administration at the opening of the Republican campaign here. His concern is with our own problems, the senator asserted.

Charges that the country is verging on bankruptcy because of Democratic policies and that that party has resolved itself into commissions and investigating committees, leaving no legitimate enterprise able to pursue its business free from their menace, were made by Senator Sherman of Illinois.

Representatives of all the political clubs of the state were on hand for the firing of the opening gun in behalf of Charles Evans Hughes.

Preparation for industrial defense was urged by Senator Sherman after his indictment of the Wilson regime.

MAY COST PACKERS $1,000,000 A YEAR

Yonkers, N. Y., Aug. 23.—A fine of $100 imposed on Swift & Co., meat packers, by City Court Judge Joseph H. Beall, carried with it a decision which will cost the country's meat packers $1,000,000 a year if approved by the higher courts, according to their attorneys. It will save this sum to the customers.

Judge Beall found the packers guilty of having violated the law by charging for meat containers at the same rate as for the meat they contained.

It was charged the company sold ham weighing 11 pounds 6 ounces in containers weighing 6 ounces and charged for 11 pounds, 12 ounces of meat.

The company's defense was that hams are not classed as ordinary meats and that the buyer knows he is paying meat prices for paper containers.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twing which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.

Later developments in budget making will be incorporated in the Minnesota form, the governor said, inasmuch as the examiner is expected to gain through the experience of other states and the more progressive cities.

The system will be devised to show in detail the exact needs of each state department for the guidance of legislators in voting new appropriations.

BIRDMAN BEATS BIRDS

De Lloyd Thompson, Noted Aviator, Establishes New Altitude Record—Coming to Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9.

DE LOYD THOMPSON, the daring aviator, who is coming to the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9, has established a new American altitude record. Recently he ascended so high at New York City that he was completely lost from sight long before he ceased going upward. This feat will make his visit to the Minnesota State Fair more interesting than ever.

In preparation for his altitude flight Thompson donned an Arctic suit, which was given to him by Admiral Peary, the Arctic explorer, for the purpose of warding off the intense cold. Had it not been for this suit, Thompson declares he would have been unable to gain the new record for high flying.

Thompson is to give a preparedness demonstration at the Minnesota State Fair in imitation of the invasion of this country by an enemy air fleet in time of war. He will demonstrate from a gigantic war plane a fancied destruction of the Fair Grounds by dropping bombs upon the principal buildings. Thompson's preparedness demonstrations in the East this spring gained international recognition for him.

The big birdman will also loop the loop, fly upside down, drop vertically in the air, and perform other perilous feats which only a few airmen dare to attempt.

ENTIRE TOWN TO VISIT STATE FAIR

$10,000.00 Building Materials Exhibit a New Feature at Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9.

Moving an entire suburban district over 1,000 miles is the magic task which is being undertaken this year to provide the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9, with a new and interesting feature.

is an annex of the Art Galleries. A pretentious display of all kinds of building materials will be shown in conjunction with the model suburb exhibit.

The White Pine Bureau, representing the Northern Pine Manufacturers of Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan and the Association of White Pine Manufacturers of Idaho, are co-operating with the Minnesota Art Commission and the Minnesota State Fair in insuring the success of this big display.

An Enormous Fair.

The Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9, will be attended by 350,000 persons.

SENATOR LIPPITT.

Opens the Republican Fight in Rhode Island.

SENATOR LIPPITT OPENS CAMPAIGN

Rocky Point, R. I., Aug. 23.—President Wilson is attempting to do far more than expected of him, in attempting to manage the affairs of 18,000,000 persons immediately south of our southern boundary, Senator Henry F. Lippitt of Rhode Island asserted in an arraignment of the administration at the opening of the Republican campaign here. His concern is with our own problems, the senator asserted.

Charges that the country is verging on bankruptcy because of Democratic policies and that that party has resolved itself into commissions and investigating committees, leaving no legitimate enterprise able to pursue its business free from their menace, were made by Senator Sherman of Illinois.

Representatives of all the political clubs of the state were on hand for the firing of the opening gun in behalf of Charles Evans Hughes.

Preparation for industrial defense was urged by Senator Sherman after his indictment of the Wilson regime.
